

One of our carrier boys tells us the latest small-fry gossip. Seems that a friend of his crawled into the barber's chair and ordered a crew-cut. "Your mother know about this?" asked the barber. "Well . . . and . . . no," said the boy; "and I guess I'll get a whipping — but that won't put the hair back."

A publicity item from the Saturday Evening Post announces that Charles A. Lindbergh's own story of the first crossing of the Atlantic in a single-engine plane, "33 Hours in Paris," will start in this week's issue.

John A. Malone in a letter to editors says:

"It reminds us that when the Lone Eagle took off on his trail-blazing flight, Aviation was in its infancy. Regularly scheduled passenger flights were a rarity in the United States. And his plane had but one engine. But his unbelievable non-stop hop to Europe—only 26 years ago—demonstrated the potentialities of air travel and resulted in a significant alteration of the world in which we live, where foreign lands are only a few hours away and supersonic travel is around the corner."

I know SEP will do justice to Lindbergh, but both Lindbergh and the Post will have to hump themselves if they tie the autobiography which concluded only last week. That was Bing Crosby's story as told to Pete Martin, "Call Me Lucky."

The singer and the SEP staff writer put together one of the best, most interesting, and thoroughly honest stories ever written about a living man in our generation. There was no apology for Bing's somewhat careless life; he had Pete Martin put down the exact truth — the story of an ordinary American with an extraordinary voice who really didn't know music but who was incredibly lucky.

Crosby saved his Sunday punch for the eighth and final installment last week. That's when he handled the touching situation of a father who had "sold out" in an autobiography and at the same time laid down a tough discipline for his four sons. Was Bing in a close place? Not at all. "Do what I say — not what I do — while you're in my house living off my money," he summarized his message to the four sons of a famous and wealthy father.

The autobiography bristled with the greatest array of characters I have ever read in a book. Crosby knew more people — both famous and infamous — than a president, prime minister, or the FBI. "Call Me Lucky" is the No. 1 non-fiction book of the last decade.

Sentences Are Handed Down in Court Here

In Hempstead Circuit Court today Judge Lyle Brown handed down suspended sentences to two persons charged with burglary and grand larceny in a case resulting from the alleged robbery of Jess Morris, local meat dealer, earlier this year.

The suspended sentences were recommended by the prosecuting witness and the sheriff.

Charles Richardson, one of the persons involved, entered a plea of guilty to grand larceny, given suspended sentence of one year. A charge of robbery against Richardson was dismissed on recommendation of the prosecuting attorney.

A third party involved in the case pleaded not guilty and will be tried later.

Grover Williams, charged with burglary and grand larceny, pleaded guilty and sentenced to two years on each count. In a pending case he was charged on a three-year sentence by Judge Brown with the sentence to run concurrently with the total of seven years. Williams admitted entering and robbing Perry Moses' Grocery store early Saturday morning.

N. H. Ehrlich and L. A. Gardner, 44-a as Arkansas, Pinks, dismissed with prejudice.

Virginia D. Cannon, vs. St. Louis Fire Insurance Co., dismissed with prejudice.

Two Negro youths, charged with grand larceny, were turned back to juvenile court.

Bomber Base All Set, L. R. Declares

WASHINGTON, (AP) — Authorization to start work on a medium jet bomber base at Little Rock, Ark., was given Saturday by the Department of Defense.

Arkansas Rep. Brooks Hays said he had received a letter from the Air Force which said that "all construction planned for that installation have been approved except for the deferment for further consideration of a minor item for telephone facilities."

However, at Hope, Ark., a group of southwestern Arkansas citizens seeking to have the base built at Hope, said that they don't attach much importance to Hays' statement.

Frank McLarty, president of the group, said that because Hays is a minority member of congress

International Problems Are Like Neighborhood Problems Except They Are King Sized

By HAL BOYLE
NEW YORK (AP) — International problems are like neighborhood problems, except they come in a larger size.

And foreign countries are like the neighbors who live on your own street.

The change of executive leadership in the vast house of Russia reminds me of a change of neighbors in our town when I was a boy.

There was a little white house across the way owned by old Mr. Crabbe, the neighborhood gruff.

He built a white picket fence around it, and the fence started right at the sidewalk.

Old Mr. Crabbe didn't like anybody and never asked anybody to like him. He visited no one. No one visited him. If the kids playing in the street hit a baseball into old Mr. Crabbe's front yard, they didn't get it back. He ran out and grabbed it.

German Praises Big-Heartedness of America

NEW YORK, (AP) West German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer declared on his arrival here today that America's big-heartedness has given Germany a new conception of national standards of conduct.

The 77-year-old Adenauer came here aboard the liner United States for a round of important conferences with President Eisenhower and other government officials.

The talks may center on the Soviet "peace" drive's impact on European unity.

Expressing gratitude for America's "help and kindness" to Germany, he said: "Very rarely in past history has a victorious people stretched out a helpful hand to wards the vanquished, as you have done."

This sympathy and generosity, he said, "has raised the spirit of the German people and has given it confidence again."

"What seems especially important to me, this has convinced the German people that in the life of nations, force and egoism are not the only motive powers."

Adenauer said that America's recognition of the obligations imposed by its power and wealth would be "recorded with golden letters" in the "history of our time, which contains so many dark pages."

The chancellor's remarks were read from a prepared statement.

"Asked what effects he thought the Soviet union's 'peace' drive might mean to his country and to others of the Atlantic Defense Community he said:

Court Rules Rhea Is Mayor of Fayetteville

LITTLE ROCK, (AP) A divided Arkansas Supreme Court today ruled Powell M. Rhea is the rightful mayor of Fayetteville.

The court rejected the contention of former Washington County Sheriff Arthur B. Davidson that he and not Rhea was legally elected on Nov. 6, 1951.

A group of voters wrote in Davidson's name against Rhea, then seeking a second term as the Democratic nominee.

Rhea's name was the only one on the ballot. He had continued to hold the mayor's office, under a ruling of the Washington Circuit Court, which the Supreme Court today upheld.

The Supreme Court made its decision on the grounds that while in votes were prohibited in municipal elections in cities of the first class by Act 105 of 1935.

The court majority decided that the 1935 act interfered with no constitutional provisions relating to conduct of elections and that it had not been repealed by a later act, 353 of 1949.

The majority opinion was written by special associate Justice Reloit Taylor of Little Rock, ap-Continued on Page Six

Russia Changes Story, Doctors Jailed in Murder Plot Suddenly Freed

UN Ready to Swap 500 Sick Immediately

By LEROY HANSEN

PANMUNJOM, Korea (UP) — The United Nations told Communist negotiators today they were ready to return 500 ailing Red soldiers daily within a week after agreement was reached on a swap of sick and wounded prisoners.

The U. N. offer was in a nine-point program put before the Reds at today's 48-minute opening talk on the exchange of allied prisoners.

The U. N. negotiators said the first Allied-Communist talks in six months made "distinct progress". Both sides agreed to meet again at 11 a. m. tomorrow (4 a. m. EST Monday).

The talks may lead to resumption of armistice negotiations.

Chief U. N. Negotiator Rear Admiral John Daniel said he told the Reds today:

"We are prepared to repatriate direct through Panmunjom all sick and wounded captured personnel specified in Article 100 of the Geneva convention. We have not divided them into categories. We have total figures by nationalities which we are prepared to exchange."

The nine points submitted by the Allies are:

1. Panmunjom would be the site of the exchange.
2. Exchange would begin seven days after agreement is signed.
3. The U. N. would repatriate 500

Some 145,000 Prisoners Are Involved

WASHINGTON, (AP) — More than 145,000 prisoners in the Korean War — 3,188 of them Americans — were the pawns today in what appeared to be a giant new peace offensive directed from the Kremlin.

It isn't particularly surprising in the light of past events.

Early in the Korean War, the Chinese Communist disclosed they placed a high political and propaganda value on their Allied prisoners.

It remains to be seen whether the Reds will try again — at the truce talks which resumed today at Panmunjom — to exploit the captives they hold.

The first indication of their attitude came in November, 1950, shortly after the Chinese entered the war to support the North Korean army shattered by the United Nations forces of Gen. Douglas MacArthur.

The North Koreans had used their prisoners cruelly. Americans who fell into their hands generally were treated brutally. The old rules for humane treatment of prisoners were ignored. Many Americans were massacred.

There was nothing phony about those massacre reports out of Korea. I saw massacre victims near

FHA Tour of Local Farms to Be Held April 7

The Farmers Home Administration will conduct its annual Farm Tour Tuesday, April 7. The group will assemble at the court house at 1 p. m. and will leave the court house immediately thereafter.

The farm of Cecil Wyatt of Oakhaven will be visited first where a well planned year around pasture will be observed. You will see first and second year Fescue and Ladino Clover and will see an excellent crop of oats which was utilized most of the winter for pasture even though last fall was very dry for sowing oats.

After this farm is toured, the group will go to Joe Willett's farm on Highway 20 just across Terre Rouge Creek on the Hope-DeAnn road. Observed here will be a well planned year around pasture program, a Grade A Dairy barn, a high producing dairy herd and heifers grown for replacement.

Biggest Atom Blast Set Off Today

LAS VEGAS, Nev. — The fourth — and biggest — of this year's atomic blasts went off in the desert northwest of here today. Seven minutes later, the sound waves hit Las Vegas with a resounding crack.

It was one of the sharpest jolts since the early days of nuclear experimenting, when shock waves still had enough force, after racing 75 miles, to break a few windows here.

Today's explosion was designed to test, among other things, radiation effect on mice and monkeys.

The familiar white cloud boiled up, quickly, and was visible here. Observers believe that today's device — as the Atomic Energy Commission calls the weapons it tests — was dropped from a plane.

Practical tests this season have been set off from 800-foot steel towers, and have been fairly tall this far away.

Today's, first of the spring series triggered in daylight, went off at 7:30 a. m. (8:30 a. m. CST). Observers noted many planes in the air before the flash. The Air Force has said it might have as many as 74 craft aloft at one time.

The shock wave — with more strength than noted here yet this spring — was felt clearly at 7:37 a. m.

Pair Sentenced for Bad Checks

A young California man and his wife, picked up Friday by State Policeman Guy Downing and Deputy Sheriff Jimmy Cook, were sentenced today on charges of car theft and passing hot checks.

They were picked up on a tip from Arkadelphia for passing a bad check there.

All Around the Town

By The Star Staff

On request of Hope School authorities warrants have been issued for the arrest of a number of parents who have not been requiring their children to attend school as required by law. The Prosecuting Attorney's office indicates more warrants will soon be issued. These cases will be heard by Municipal Judge Lemay in the near future. Under the law parents are liable when their school age children are not in school.

Hempstead residents will be pleased to learn that over $400 has been received by Judge U. G. Garrett and will be turned over to W. L. McCoy to help pay expenses for an operation for his daughter, Wanda Dean McCoy, 11, whose heart condition endangers her life if not corrected — the operation will be this week at Temple, Texas, where physicians and the clinic have agreed to perform the operation at cost.

The McCoy family, one of moderate means, have spent their savings trying to help Wanda Dean, whose doctor has said that unless her condition is improved by this asked for them and Hope and Hempstead have responded as always. Now Wanda Dean has a chance to recover where before there was no hope.

From the armed services comes the report that A/2c Robert Watson of Washington has been promoted to A/2c at San Antonio's Kelly Field.

He is the son of Robert Watson of Washington and John B. Modisett, son of Henry Modisett, of Hope recently made PFC while fighting with the 23th Division in Korea.

He arrived in Korea last January. Pearl D. Benson, son of E. H. Benson of Bodewas has been assigned to Co. B, 77th Arm. Inf. Bn. at Camp Roberts, Calif.

And Pvt. James Ball, son of John Hensley of Hope, is also taking basic training at Camp Roberts.

Want to know where your money is being spent, etc.? Attend the regular council meeting, Tuesday night, and you will get a full picture of the financial condition of the town.

High-Ranking Red Blamed, Says Newspaper

By EDDY GILMORE

MOSCOW, (AP) — Pravda assailed an official of the powerful Communist party secretariat today for being duped by false evidence in the murder case against 15 Soviet doctors. The newspaper disclosed also that one of his former secure assistants was under arrest as the culprit who actually did the faking.

The government announced Saturday that all of the doctors, accused last January of murdering two Soviet leaders and plotting against others, had been exonerated and released.

The Communist party newspaper blasted Semjon D. Ignatiev, former minister of state security, for being guilty of "political blindness" and "gullibility" in the case. Ignatiev was elevated March 21 on the five-man secretariat of the Com-

About Face in Doctor's Plot Is Studied

By WILLIAM L. RYAN

AP Foreign News Analyst

The dizzying about-face of the Soviet bureaucracy in the "doctor plot" may be the prelude to other of the "fantastic" about-faces that stud the history of the Soviet Union. It raises the question that the whole incredible story was one phase of the Kremlin struggle for power and the death of Joseph Stalin. The death of Joseph Stalin, the leader of the former master of state security, has been pictured as a protégé of Premier Georgi Malenkov — but the turn of events suggests one more in a series of victories for Malenkov. Ignatiev and his deputy Ryumin — the latter is under arrest — seem to fall away.

Who is double-crossing whom? Possibly secret police chief Lavrenty P. Beria is getting the run-around. There are suspicious phrases in the communiqué published by Pravda, announcing the criminal elements in the former ministry of state security were responsible for trumping up a plot. The dramatic turn of events suggests that the tactics of Malenkov are evaluated.

Ignatiev and Ryumin, coaches in Communist jargon, which often betrays its meaning, point to the likelihood that somebody was overruled swiftly in the case of the doctors.

Two Youths Are Taken After Stealing Truck

Two Houston, Texas youths, ages 15 and 16, were arrested at Gordon Saturday in connection with the theft of a Ralph Brothers Laundry Truck of Texarkana sometime Tuesday night.

The youths admitted to officers they stole a motorcycle at Houston and came to Texarkana. They parked the cycle in an alley and went to a movie. Afterwards they stole the truck and drove out of Highway 10 where they loaded the motorcycle into the truck and proceeded toward Hope.

Al Peup's Spur the driver, control, and disassembled a telephone pole when a fire blew out and continued to Prescott where they admitted entering a drive-in theater and taking some change. They then rode to Gordon where officers were waiting as the result of a radio message sent out from State Police.

Breakdown on the Meaning of Tidelands

By JAMES MARLOW

WASHINGTON, D. C. — Tidelands is the familiar but wrong name for the long-standing dispute between the federal government and some states over ownership of the offshore land under the water off the coast.

The Republican-controlled Congress is hurrying to carry out President Eisenhower's campaign promise to give these lands to the states. Congress will give them a big chunk but not the whole pie. The government doesn't want to lose the states' ownership of the tideland, that part of the shore between high and low tide. The Supreme Court ruled 108 years ago they belonged to the states.

The dispute has been over ownership of those submerged lands extending seaward from the low water mark to the edge of the continental shelf.

There is oil in the submerged lands in the Pacific off California and in the Gulf of Mexico off Louisiana and Texas. The fight over ownership of the submerged land began to boil in the mid-1930s when it became clear from exploration that the oil reserves in the Gulf were very rich.

The federal government and the states both wanted the revenue from the oil. The government argued this revenue should be for the benefit of all the people of the United States, not just the rich states of a few states. The states claimed ownership to the submerged lands as part of their "rights," some of them claiming ownership rights going back at least into the 18th century.

There was another factor. Since oil reserves are a vital part of national defense, the government protested it should have full control of the submerged lands for future need.

Twice, Democratic-controlled Congresses—in 1937 and 1939—voted to give the states at least part of those submerged lands but former President Truman killed the idea with a veto.

And three times—once in 1947 and twice in 1950—the Supreme Court ruled three states—California, Texas, Louisiana—did not own the submerged lands. The court did not say the federal government owned them but did say it had "paramount rights" in them.

In view of that ruling, the states could not get the lands unless they were given to them by Congress. The court had said there is no limit on the constitutional power of Congress to give away U.S. property.

Last week the House voted to give the states ownership of at least a part of the submerged lands and the Senate, now debating a similar measure, is expected to approve it next week.

That two houses would give the states the submerged lands, but their consent is to a limit of three miles at least. This means they could keep the royalties from the oil from within that three-mile boundary.

For some states—particularly Florida and Texas—the limit would be further out in the sea. Those two states claimed a 104-mile limit, long ago with more or less congressional approval at the time.

But the House and Senate measures are vague in spots and that will probably mean more years of battling in courts. Some of the main supporters of this "tideland" measure in the Senate frankly admitted they don't know how far out to sea some states might be able to claim ownership on his side grounds.

The House and Senate would let the government have what the states can't claim, although the Senate measure doesn't say what the government should do with its share of the submerged lands.

Four Persons Die Violently

By The Associated Press

Four persons died violently in Arkansas during the week which ended last night. Two died in traffic accidents.

Miss Cooper, 30, of Chicago, was killed when she was struck by a car on Highway 10 near Little Rock. Mrs. L. L. Smith, 41, of Little Rock, was fatally injured yesterday when the car she was driving overturned four times about a mile from the Little Rock city limits. State Police said yesterday in the car with Mrs. Smith, Marie Reynolds, 22, was injured slightly.

Mrs. Cahill died in a Little Rock hospital last night.

Fire Hits Business District of Texarkana

TEXARKANA, Mo. — A 4-alarm fire threatened the east end of the Texarkana, Ark., business district early today before flames brought the blaze under control.

William E. Treadwell, owner of the Evergreen Feed Store, south of the damage, estimated his loss at $75,000.

Treadwell said the half-block long building was damaged by a combination of gas explosion and the fire. The back wall of the building was ripped out by one explosion.

The fire of undetermined origin was discovered by the city fire department about 10:30 a.m. and was reported injured.

TO AID DULLES—Walter S. Robertson, above, a Richmond, Va., attorney, is likely to succeed John M. Allison as assistant secretary of state for Far Eastern affairs. He was a member of the Marshall mission to China in 1946.

AMMO QUIZZER—Sen. Margaret Chase Smith (R., Me.), heads a Senate subcommittee to check on the alleged armed forces' ammunition shortages. The committee was set up after senators decided preliminary hearings "completely substantiated" General Van Fleet's charge that the Eighth Army was hampered by low supplies.

PUERTO RICO REALLY BUILDS 'EM—This is an unusual aerial view of the nearly completed Lorena Torres housing project near San Juan, P. R., called the most elaborate anywhere under the U. S. flag. There will be 2000 apartments on about 85 acres of land, which will provide living quarters for about 10,000 people. The project cost some $12 billion dollars.

WATERMELON-SHAPED TIRES ARE SOFT—Revolutionary new type of "cushion" tire allows this Navy test to run over inventor William Albert at the Carnegie Hall, leaving around without hurting him. Inventor Albert claims the tires will permit greater maneuverability of military and farm equipment over all types of terrain including swamps and mud batters. The tires are given by a series of rotating rollers on the under side of the vehicle. These rollers push the top surface of the balloon-like structure and move the vehicle.

"MIGHTY MOUSE" ROCKET CARRIER—A mechanic inspects the just-disclosed secret rocket firing device on the U. S. Air Force F-86D. The retractable pod holds 24 rockets of the "Mighty Mouse" type, each equivalent to a 75-mm. artillery shell. The rockets are usually fired in salvoes of six, 12, 18 or 24, fanning out up and down, right and left, as they speed toward the enemy target. An electronic mechanism guides and locks the plane onto the target for the kill.

FLYING BOAT TO STRESS SPEED—Fastest flying boat in the 40-year history of water-based aviation is expected to be the Convair R3Y-1 "Tradewind," shown in artist's sketch above. Its top speed will be more than 350 miles per hour. The 80-ton transport, equipped with air conditioning and high altitude pressurizing systems, is the first water-based transport fitted with rearward-facing passenger seats. The plane is being tested at San Diego, Cal., and will be ready for trans-Pacific Navy service early in 1954.

T-8 IS HEAVY SMOKER—Lethal-looking smoke rockets are installed under the wing of a T-8 Mosquito by A/IC William T. Rogers, of McAlester, Okla. The Mosquitoes range the Korean battlefield, marking the targets with these smoke rockets, and then UN bombers follow up the "smoke labels" with shattering attacks.

PRETTY "BALLYHOO"—Irmgard Paul, above, 21-year-old beauty from Berlin, has only been in this country two years, but it's been long enough for the Publicists' Guild to notice her, and give her the title of "Miss Ballyhoo of 1953." There's no reason for the legs in the picture—just more ballyhoo.

HISTORIC HERALDRY—Edwin Routledge, left, and Alfred Abbott, put the finishing touches on this 15-foot high clay model of the Royal coat of arms. A finished cast of the model will be erected outside the annex of Westminster Abbey for Queen Elizabeth's coronation.

ROCKETS FROM F-86 "POD" TO PLAGUE ENEMY—The wraps are off the secret rocket-firing device on the U. S. Air Force F-86 Sabre jet. It is a retractable launching pod which snaps into the fuselage after the firing, giving the plane a streamlined surface for near-sonic flight. The plane is the nation's only one-man interceptor, and its pilot can search out enemy aircraft with his radar scope and attack without actually seeing the enemy. The 24 rockets are the "Mighty Mouse" type, equivalent to a 75-mm. artillery shell.

ALL THREE CARRY A-BOMBS—A few years ago the only planes that could carry the then-cumbersome A-bomb were the giant B-36, center, and the B-47, top. But now because of the reduction in the size of the atomic weapon, the F-84G, a one-man aircraft, can effectively carry the bomb. The Thunderjet, capable of flying at more than 600 miles per hour, can be put together in a fraction of the time it takes to manufacture the slow-moving bombers. Above photographically illustrates the size of the U. S. Air Force's three main atom bomb carriers.

Two Opinions

Dear Miss Dix: Sally and I have been going steady for six months and plan to marry when we finish college. She says I have no sense of responsibility. She believes that I should go out with other girls, which will give me experience in making decisions, and also enable me to make sure that Sally is really the one for me. I think she is being childish.

Dear Miss Dix: You have Bill's side of the story; here's mine. The main reason why I think he should go out with other girls for a while is that he never has gone with anyone but me. I, on the other hand, have been going with boys since seventh grade. I'm sure Bill's the boy for me, but I want him to be sure, too. He needs to be a little more independent and, as of now, he's leaning too much on my judgment.

Answer: Seldom do I have an opportunity to evaluate a problem from both sides of the fence. Again, have not been included in this dual epistle, and they might have helped.

Girl Is Right

Sally is quite right in believing that Bill's social life should be more extended. Too many young people make the mistake of hanging on to the first date for dear life, seemingly afraid that once that's lost, romance is gone forever. This attitude signifies a lack of self confidence.

The great hazard of "going steady" is the temptation to depend solely on one source of entertainment and companionship. Complete dependence during the formative years, on any one person, is the biggest stumbling block to progressive, mature growth.

Bill must learn to be a responsible young adult before he can adequately tackle the job of husband and father. Sally is quite right in urging him to broaden his scope of social life, in which he will have to assume more obligations than he cares to tackle now.

Dear Miss Dix: This problem doesn't concern me personally, but I would like your opinion on it. When a married man and a single woman have an affair, why is the single girl always blamed for breaking up the married man's home? He is just as much to blame as she is. In fact, I think more blame should be attached to the man. The girl is single and is privileged to pick her friends, but placed. The cheerful Bulldog played with his two kids joined in the game. And Mr. Fuddle's wife and daughter joined in the game. Mr. and Mrs. Fuddle fell asleep regularly. Never did they wake up. Some of the neighbors wanted their kids raised. They only upset all the Fuddle's. The whole neighborhood looked on.

Mr. and Mrs. Fuddle started at each other, the one would race out and the other would come out. Pick up the kids. And the Fuddle kids no longer joined in the game. Their parents wouldn't let them. All they were allowed to do was to try to ambush us one time and try to knock our front teeth out.

Well, the Fuddles began calling the cops to break up our game. And the other neighbors began calling the cops to separate the fighting Fuddles, and soon everybody was crying.

Why, wasn't it a lot more peaceful when Mr. Crabbe lived in the house? At least a soul knew where the blood. Nobody can figure out the Fuddles.

Any day, when I think of the things in Russia, I think of my neighborhood. Old Mr. Stalin

Sincerely Yours... 26 Telephone People
...partners in Hope's Progress

You probably know many of these people. They're all neighbors of yours. You'll find some of them on duty at any hour of the day or night you lift your receiver.

By the nature of their jobs, they help Hope grow and prosper by furnishing the best possible telephone service.

By their very numbers and their pay checks which total $7,250 a month, these telephone people are important customers in practically every business in town.

But most important of all, by their personal interest in their home town's welfare, they are good citizens of Hope. In fact, you probably know them better as fellow church members, Scout workers, and active partners in a score of civic organizations than you know them as telephone people.

We're glad to have them on the telephone team. And we have good reason to think that you're glad to have them as partners — on and off the job — in Hope's progress.

The new tenants of Soviet power — Malenkov and Co. — are making friendly noises. In fact, they are almost genial. But it remains to be seen whether they will give the world a longer stretch of peace than the Fuddles gave our community.

That's the trouble with new neighbors, little ones or big ones. One time can prove the way they live, and how long the fences have to stay up.

Court Rules

pointed by Gov. Cherry at the Court's request to serve only in the mayor's case.

Chief Justice Griffin Smith and Associate Justice J. S. Holt dissented to a prevailing ruling but neither handed down a written opinion. At the 1931 election, 81
persons wrote in the name of Davidson. Eighty-six voted for Rhea.
Davidson asked the Supreme Court to prohibit Circuit Judge
Maupin Cummings from certifying Rhea as the nominee, but the Court sent the case back and ordered that it be tried as any other election contest.

At the trial, Cummings found that after illegal votes were eliminated for both men, Rhea had 79
votes and Davidson, 78.

But he also ruled that Davidson could not have been elected in any case because write-in votes were prohibited by the 1935 act.

In his appeal Davidson contended that Cummings had counted illegal votes cast for Rhea had invalid legal votes for Davidson and had erred in ruling that write-in votes were illegal.

Taylor, in today's opinion, wrote that if it were found that write-in votes were illegal, that would settle the case without consideration of the other two points.

Then the majority did rule that write-ins were invalid.

Incidentally, Gov. Cherry last week vetoed a legislative bill which would have prohibited write-in votes in any municipal general election, not only in cities of the first class but also in cities of the second class and in incorporated towns.

At the time, Cherry said he thought a voter should be permitted to write in the name of a candidate if he wished.

The Court agreed with Columbia Chancery Court, 2nd division, in refusing to set up a family trust for 320 acres in Columbia County once owned by James E. Neill, who died in 1901.

The late Dr. J. A. Neill, one of James E. Neill's 10 children bought up the interest of several of his brothers and sisters and in turn the property was purchased by another brother, W. B. Neill, after Dr. Neill's death.

Other members of the family contended that Dr. Neill had intended to deed the property back to them in equal shares but both the chancery court and the Supreme Court said they found nothing to substantiate such an assertion.

The Court held that Chris Jackson is owner of a half lot of Jefferson County against the claim of A. M. Chavis. The decision affirmed the Jefferson Chancery Court.

The appeal of the state of Arkansas from a Grant Circuit Court order dismissing charges of illegal hunting against several defendants was dismissed because the required procedure was not followed.

T. A. Bradshaw and others were fined in a Jefferson peace court for hunting on a game refuge on complaint of Game and Fish Commission authorities.

They appealed to circuit court
where they contended that the land on which they were hunting
was not part of a game refuge
and the cases were dismissed.

Ed Ashbaugh an attorney for the Game and Fish Commission filed an appeal in the name of the state but the Supreme Court said he had no such authority.
State appeals must be instigated
by the prosecuting attorney and agreed to by the attorney general, the Court said.

In a second opinion written by a special justice, the Court decided that the Workmen's Compensation Commission was correct
in disallowing Wiley Fulcher additional compensation against the Chicago Mill and Lumber Company.

The opinion in this case was written by special Associate Justice Jesse Taylor of Blytheville.
Associate Justices Sam Robinson and Minor Wilcox dissented and the Chief Justice did not participate.

The ruling reversed Phillips Circuit Court which had overruled
the Compensation Commission.
Fulcher was injured Nov. 20,
1947 while employed by the Company.

Nearly two years later it was necessary to amputate his right leg
but doctors testified that the amputation was not the result of the old injury.

The company paid medical expenses for him through May 6, 1949 and then stopped payments.
The suit followed.

The court ruled that the widow and child of a man killed in a traffic collision were not prevented from maintaining a suit for his death despite the fact that a judgment had been made on behalf of his father.

The opinion, written by Associate George Rose Smith, reversed
Nevada Circuit Court. Associate
Justice Ed McFadden dissented.

Smith wrote that when Arthur Reed was killed in Arkansas on Dec. 1, 1948 his parents did not know that he had married in California and had a widow and child
surviving in that state.

Later Reed's brother-in-law, Oscar Stuart filed suit as administrator on Reed's estate and collected $2,500 on behalf of the father. Smith said that obviously

I will be wiser than I am now and then I will answer all your questions."

Adenauer, who goes to Washington tomorrow, will be in this country for 13 days.

NEW YORK (AP) — West German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer arrives today for talks with President Eisenhower which may center on the Soviet "peace" drive's impact on European unity.

James B. Conant, U.S. high commissioner for Germany, flew here yesterday from Bonn. He will attend Adenauer's conferences with the President and Secretary of State Dulles in Washington.

Adenauer, like the President, is a strong supporter of Western European unity.

His support of plans to put 500-000 Germans back into uniform as part of a European army has powerful opposition in his own country, and in a nervous France. Of the six national legislatures which must ratify the army treaty, only the German Parliament's lower house has approved it.

It would seem Adenauer also hopes to take home with him some substantial promises to aid him
to override political opposition.

Adenauer faces the task of plunging immediately into an election campaign upon his return to Bonn. His Christian Democratic party will be seeking another four-year term.

The problems Adenauer is taking to Washington include:

1. More U.S. economic aid.
2. Military aid.
3. Help in solving the quarrel with France over the rich Industrial Saar.
4. What are the new tenants of the Kremlin up to, and what does it mean to a divided Germany?
5. And a fifth, and probably the knottiest: How can the West Germans be rearmied if France finally balks on the European army plan?

En route here aboard the liner
United States, Adenauer already has spoken out on Moscow's growing peace offensive. He said Western statesmen should examine the moves of Premier Georgi Malenkov's government "like detectives."

the little town of Suncheon in North Korea. Survivors who crawled out of the hills told us the story of what had happened.

The prisoner-of-war train stopped
in a lonely tunnel at dusk.
Red guards told the Americans
they were to be given food. . . the prisoners walked into the fields and sat huddled in little groups waiting for their food. . . and the guards opened fire without warning, killing 60.

The Chinese— apparently wanting to reverse the bad propaganda effects of the atrocity stories—did a turnaround.

Late in November, in an obvious
propaganda move, they released 27
Americans after trying to indoctrinate the soldiers against "American imperialism."

The Chinese told the youths to return to their lines and spread the word that the Chinese didn't want the war which they said was started by the "no-good capitalists."

The Reds have said they are holding 3,198 American prisoners of war, 1,000 other Nationals, and 9,060 South Koreans. The U. N.
reports holding 132,000 Chinese and North Korean prisoners, among them 51,000 who insist they are anti-Communists and don't want to return home.

During the first months of the war, the hard-core Communists were penned together in prisoner stockades on Kojie Island, off the coast of Korea. The most fanatical were among 6,000 kept in one confined.

Here again, the Communists explained prisoners for propaganda
by stirring up bloody riots at Kojie.
The Reds talked broke down over the true insistence on forced repatriation of all prisoners—regardless of whether they wanted to return home or not.

The Allies would not agree to this. They said to return prisoners against their will might be sending them back to certain death.
